

Additional Technical Writing Experience

I have many years of experience creating and editing technical writing for various companies in the legal and investment industries. I also spent years working as a corporate trainer for a consulting firm, where I created coursework, including training lessons and booklets, with an emphasis on Microsoft Office and related programs such as document management systems.

Due to proprietary nature of this writing, I was not permitted to retain samples. I am, however, happy to create custom made examples, as requested by potential clients or employers.

CONTACT: copywritertsp.com